Leroy Robert (“Satchel”) Paige★

P. (B: July 7, 1906, Mobile, AL-D: June 5, 1982). Chattanooga Black Lookouts, 1926–1927; Birmingham Black Barons, 1927–1930; Baltimore Black Sox, 1930; Cleveland Cubs, 1931; Pittsburgh Crawfords, 1931–1934; Kansas City Monarchs, 1935–1937; Pittsburgh Crawfords and Ciudad Trujillo Santo Domingo team, 1937; Newark Eagles, 1938; Satchel Paige’s All-Stars, 1939; Kansas City Monarchs, 1939–1942; New York Black Yankees and Memphis Red Sox, 1943; Kansas City Monarch, 1944–1945; Philadelphia Stars, 1947; Kansas City Monarchs, 1948; Cleveland (AL), 1948–1949; Kansas City Monarchs and Philadelphia Stars, 1950; Chicago American Giants, 1951; St. Louis (AL), 1951–1953; Kansas City Monarchs, 1955; Miami (IL), 1956–1958; Portland (PCL), 1961; Kansas City (AL), 1965; Peninsula (Carolina League), 1966; Indianapolis Clowns, 1967; coach, Atlanta (NL), 1968. Remarks: One of the most colorful and wealthy players of the Negro Leagues, Paige, who earned his nickname at age 7 carrying suitcases from the Mobile train station, did not pitch in the white majors until age 42, thus becoming MLB’s oldest rookie when he simultaneously became the first African American pitcher in an AL game, Aug. 13, 1948; first African American hurler to appear in a World Series contest, pitching 2/3 inning of relief, Oct. 10, 1948; won one game and lost three with Kansas City in 1965 at age

59, earning honors as the oldest man to pitch a big league game; major league career total of 29 wins and 31 losses deceiving, as Paige himself estimated that he had also appeared in some 2,600 Negro League contests (winning 2,000) and hurled perhaps 300 shutouts, including 55 no-hitters; named to Missouri Sports Hall of Fame, 1979; elected to National Baseball Hall of Fame in 1971 (the first former Negro League player inducted), where his plaque reads: "Paige was one of the greatest stars to play in the Negro baseball Leagues. Thrilled millions of people and won hundreds of games. Struck out 21 major leaguers in an exhibition game. Helped pitch Cleveland Indians to the 1948 pennant in his first big league year at age 42. His pitching was a legend among major league hitters."

reads: "A fierce competitor and one of baseball's most intimidating figures on the pitching mound for four decades. His overpowering fastball and unparalleled longevity produced 324 victories and a host of major league records. Lifetime benchmarks include 5,714 strikeouts, seven no-hitters and 12 one-hitters in 27 seasons pitched. Led league in strikeouts 11 times and fanned 300 batters in a season on six occasions, including a record 383 in 1973. Strikeout victims totaled 1,176 different players. A Texas legend whose widespread popularity extended far beyond his native state."

Remarks: Considered one of the two greatest Negro League pitchers, who compiled a 20–7 record in exhibition games against white major leaguers; elected to National Baseball Hall of Fame in 1999, where his plaque reads: “A star pitcher in the early days of the Negro Leagues, the lanky right-hander with the smooth, overhand delivery, was destined for greatness with his pinpoint control, effective change of pace pitch and fastball that traveled with exceptional velocity. Playing for several teams, the New York Lincoln Giants (1911–23) and the Homestead Grays (1925–32) were the primary beneficiaries of his accomplishments. The easy-going Texan routinely reached double-digits in strikeouts in a game and on August 7, 1930, he struck out 27 Monarchs in a 12-inning contest. Voted the top pitcher in Negro Leagues history in a 1952 poll conducted by the Pittsburgh Courier.”

Thomas Austin ("Tom") Yawkey★

EXEC. (B: Feb. 21, 1903, Detroit, MI-D: July 9, 1976). Remarks: Born Thomas Austin, then adopted; owner and president, Boston (AL), 1933–1976; first to have club travel by plane; vice president of AL, 1956–1973; elected to National Baseball Hall of Fame in 1980, whom his plaque reads: "Gave baseball more than four decades of dedicated service as owner-president of Boston Red Sox from 1933 to 1976. Rated one of sport's finest benefactors. Set precedent for AL in 1936 as first to have team travel by plane. His club won pennants, in 1946, 1967, and 1975 — and narrowly missed in 1948, 1949, and 1972. Vice-president of AL from 1956 to 1973."
